

Applications are invited for a Departmental Lectureship in Cognitive Anthropology, effective from 1 September 2014, tenable until 30 September 2015. The post is based at the School of Anthropology, Banbury Road, Oxford, UK. The primary function of this post is to engage in lecturing, tutoring and the supervision of graduates and undergraduate students in cognitive and evolutionary anthropology.

You will also engage in producing course material, assessment and university examining.

You will possess a doctorate in a relevant field and some postdoctoral experience; a track record of research of international quality, including evidence of the capacity to publish in international journals with major presses. You will also have the ability to teach graduate students of high calibre, and to carry out student assessment, and teaching experience in relevant fields. You will also have sufficient depth and breadth of knowledge in the subject to develop course materials and research proposals.

Applications for this vacancy are to be made online for this full-time fixed-term position. For further details, including the job description and selection criteria, please click on the link below.

www.recruit.ox.ac.uk/pls/hrsliverecruit/erg_jobspec_version_4.jobspec?p_id=112683

You will be required to upload a CV and supporting statement with your application.

Priority candidate applications must be received by 12.00 noon on 30 May 2014. Non priority applications must be received by 12.00 noon on 11 June 2014. Interviews are provisionally planned for the week commencing 30 June 2014.